

Sydni Purvis's Biography

Sydni Purvis is a Staffing Executive with Robert Half, the world's first and largest specialized staffing firm. In her role, she specializes in recruiting and placing accounting and financial professionals in project roles with companies through the Los Angeles area. Sydni has been with Robert Half for over three years and has a background in accounting, human resources, staffing as well as retail. She is passionate about helping professionals find job opportunities and advancing their career.

Finding a Job in a World of Remote Work

With much of the world's workforce operating out of their homes during the COVID-19 pandemic, job seekers must adapt to not only an all-remote recruitment process but also starting a new job remotely. This presentation provides insights on how to search, apply for and interview for a job remotely, including best practices for video interviews and salary negotiations. Also get tips for making your first days on a new job go smoothly without in-person interactions with your new team