CLINICAL PHILOSOPHY

The Department of Communication Disorders at CSULA embraces a philosophy of clinical service delivery that is consistent with the ethical standards, scope of practice, and current standards of practice of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA). Our goal is to serve individuals with communication disorders in the most effective and humane manner possible, and to ensure that our students commit themselves to this fundamental clinical value. In training our students, we emphasize the importance of holding paramount the well-being of clients as well as their families and caregivers. The importance of involving families and caregivers in all aspects of the therapeutic process is also stressed.

SERVICES OFFERED

At the Robert L. Douglass Speech-Language Clinic we provide a full range of diagnostic and therapeutic services in a university environment. We offer services for both children and adults with articulation, phonology, language, cognitive, voice, fluency, and hearing disorders. Individual and group therapy services are available in both Spanish and English. Our clinic has also received a grant from the Parkinson Voice Project® to implement SPEAK OUT!® and the LOUD Crowd® therapy programs.

THE STAFF

All services are provided by graduate student clinicians who are supervised by faculty and clinic staff members holding California licensure and the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association's Certificate of Clinical Competence.

FEES

All services are provided free of charge.

PRIVACY NOTICE AND CONSENT FORM

The Robert L. Douglass Speech and Language Clinic is a training service agency. Our services to clients are provided by students who are supervised by faculty members. In order to provide this supervision and promote student learning through observation, our clinic rooms have special equipment – one-way observation windows, TV monitors, and audio and/or video recording devices. Occasionally a video or audiotape will be saved beyond the time of direct services because it is considered a good example for training purposes. These tapes are subject to all the confidential restrictions mentioned below.

Keeping client information confidential and secure, and using it only as our clients would want us to, is a top priority for all of us at the Robert L. Douglass Speech and Language Clinic. Here, then, is our promise to our clients and their families:

1. We will safeguard, according to strict standards of confidentiality and security, any information that clients share with us. What is discussed as part of the therapy process is confidential unless and until you give consent to its release.
2. We will permit only authorized employees, students, and instructional staff who are trained in the proper handling of client information to have access to that information.
3. We will not reveal client information to any external organization unless we have previously informed the client in disclosures or agreements, have been authorized by the client to share the information, or are required by law to reveal that information.
4. We will always maintain control over the confidentiality of our client information.

In short, any personal information that we collect about you or your family will be protected by physical, electronic, and procedural safeguards that meet or exceed applicable law. Finally, information obtained from clients may be used for research purposes. If this occurs, information will be handled professionally, treated confidentially, and any identifying information about the client is removed.

I have read the above policy statements and agree to these conditions.
